Soviet Offers Atom Scheme

NEW YORK, (CP)—Canada went on record Wednesday in favor of the United States plan to outlaw atomic warfare and eliminate the veto on atomic matters but Russia formally presented her own atomic control plan which would put the whole system of control under the security council and the United Nations set-up.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton told the United Nations atomic energy commission "Canada supports the principles on which these proposals (the proposals contained in the Baruch report made public last Friday) have been based" and declared Bernard Baruch "has given a lead worthy of a great nation."

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, told the commission an atomic commission he proposed for control of all atomic matters must conform to the principles laid down for the operations of the security council.

Mr. Gromyko said he made this statement because some efforts were being made to "undermine" the principle of unanimity of the council. This principle provides each of the five big powers can block by veto any substantive question arising in the security council.

Mr. Baruch called for a system of international control of atomic energy, in return for which the United States would dispose of its atomic bombs and cease manufacturing new ones. He also emphasized the United States would accept no veto on atomic matters.

Gen. McNaughton, Canada's delegate, told the commission "The Canadian attitude toward the veto power... is that we have never liked it."

Russia formally proposed:

1. Conclusion of an international agreement for the outlawing of atomic energy as a weapon of mass destruction.

2. Organization of a commission for the control of atomic energy.

The first point would bind the contracting parties to the following obligations:

"(A) Not to use, in any circumstances, an atomic weapon;

"(B) To forbid the production and keeping of a weapon based upon the use of atomic energy;

"(C) To destroy within three months from this agreement all stocks of atomic energy weapons."

3 Points Sharp Disagreement Seen in U.S., Russian Plans

By John M. Hightower

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Three points of sharp disagreement between Russian and United States plans for solving atomic energy problems led diplomatic authorities to wonder Thursday whether they might become another source of great power controversy.

The three major differences immediately apparent here between the United States proposals and the Russian proposals are:

1. Russian Delegate Andrei Gromyko rejected, though indirectly, American representative Bernard Baruch's demand that none of the great powers should have the right to veto any action proposed in handling atomic questions in future years. In other words, Mr. Baruch laid down the tenet that once the powers had made a treaty setting forth what they would and would not do about atomic energy and atomic bombs, no one of them would be able to prevent actions by the others to enforce the pledges.

2. Mr. Gromyko demanded that before any sort of international atomic control machinery is created production of atomic bombs should be stopped and those now in existence—meaning those in the United States—should be destroyed. Mr. Baruch, on the other hand, suggested that the machinery first should be created and that when it was in operation the United States would be prepared to dispose of its atomic explosives.

3. Implied in Mr. Gromyko's proposal for an initial treaty to banish atomic armaments is the idea of "outlawing" these weapons. But many of the advisers who helped develop the United States plan have contended that this is an impractical approach to the problem. They argued that during the war all major belligerents had stocks of poison gas to use and that none of them used it simply because it was militarily undesirable to do so, not because gas warfare had been outlawed.

Mufti Revealed In Royal Palace

CAIRO, (AP)—Haj Amin Al Husseini, the grand mufti of Jerusalem, missing since his flight from France early this month, has taken refuge in Egypt, a highly reliable source said Thursday that King Farouk would grant him sanctuary.

The Egyptian monarch already has advised the British government of his decision to grant sanctuary to the mufti, spiritual leader of all Palestine's Arabs, this informant said. The practice of giving asylum to those seeking it is traditional in Arabic countries.

A communique issued at Abdin Palace said the mufti—forced out of Palestine by British pressure in 1937—called at the palace, signed the royal visitors' books and asked for an audience from King Farouk Wednesday night.

The audience was granted, the communique added, "and the mufti told the king: 'I have taken refuge in your palace.'"

If it is endorsed by the annual conventions of the three organizations this fall it will complete the merger of the three, Federation of Agriculture officials said here.

Perhaps the most significant section in the draft of constitution is that on policy.

The policy of the federation shall be to use any lawful means to obtain its objectives. These shall include any actions that is decided upon the annual convention of the federation.

"This federation shall be non-partisan in politics but may exert pressure upon all political parties to secure its objectives."

Men in Britain May Buy Two Suits In Year for First Time Since 1941

By Basil Dean LONDON—Harassed British menfolk awoke Thursday with the luxurious feeling that they will now, for the first time since 1941, be able to buy two new suits in a single year—provided they don't also buy a new pair of socks, handkerchiefs, or underwear.

The new clothing coupon issue on Aug. 1 was contain 30 tokens to cover the ensuing seven months. This is the biggest issue since rationing started, and the good news has temporarily taken British minds off next Sunday's soap diet and next month's probable bread rations.

Latest toll of known dead from the tornado is 15 while property damage is estimated in the millions. The top picture was taken from an airplane flying low over the Windsor outskirts. These houses were battered by the big wind. In the lower picture, two Detroit women are salvaging belongings from their home. Suspend Rose From Commons

By Torchy Anderson

OTTAWA—Fred Rose, sentenced Thursday in Montreal, stands automatically suspended as a member of the commons but his seat, Montreal-Cartier, is not vacant.

Parliamentary authorities said suspension was automatic because the sentence had been for more than five years. He cannot take his seat or vote.

No action is likely to be taken to declare the seat vacant until the appeal has been disposed of. When the time limit for appeal has lapsed the formal convention will be tabled in the house and it will be up to the house itself to take action.

Declare Tel Aviv Out of Bounds

JERUSALEM, (AP)—The Jewish city of Tel Aviv was proclaimed out of bounds Thursday for all British troops, except military police and patrols, following a new outbreak of violence which resulted in the death of a 33-year-old Jew.

The killing brought the three-day death toll in Palestine to 22 Jews and three Britons.

Palestine Arabs celebrated the return of the mufti, Haj Amin Al Husseini, to the Middle East in an atmosphere tense with military preparations against further violence in the week-long revolt of Jewish illegal organizations.

Heavily-armed British troops guarded all rail junctions and manned numerous road blocks while the entire Palestine countryside teemed with soldiers. In Jerusalem, Jewish mobs were thrown around all public buildings.

Pamphlets attributed to underground Jewish groups were posted on Jerusalem's walls Wednesday night and three unexploded bombs were reported found.

The strict curfew on Tel Aviv was lifted after an unsuccessful all-day search Wednesday for five kidnapped British officers held captive in the city since Thursday. A sixth officer and a British nurse in Tel Aviv still were missing and believed kidnapped.

OTTAWA, (CP)—Only three provincial government spokesmen were on record Thursday with replies to federal Justice Minister St. Laurent's statement that under contempt of parliament, Tuesday, "does not derive its existence and authority from the provinces... and does not need to go to court to establish its right to exist."

But all three—Quebec, Ontario and Saskatchewan—were cool to the interpretation which was provoked by the federal government's statement.

At Quebec, Premier Duplessis said Quebec is ready to collaborate "simply and loyally" with the federal government but "we shall never be swayed by the accompaniment of centralizers nor to acquiesce in the violation of a pact of honor between the two great races."

The question arose in parliament when A. L. Smith, Progressive Conservative member for Calgary West, suggested reference should be made to the Western Canadian Society of Agronomy at a two-day conference held in Regina, June 18-19.

Mr. Peake told delegates that bacteria will, a disease which threatens to wipe out alfalfa production in western Canada, is one of the biggest agricultural problems today. Every irrigated field of Alberta, three years or older, which is not irrigated in Alberta, was infected.

Mr. Peake said it is necessary to develop resistant varieties of alfalfa which will grow in more severe climates. He said the work is being conducted at the dominion experimental station at Lethbridge.

M.P. Will Face Other Charges

MONTREAL, (CP)—Fred Rose, convicted Saturday of conspiring to send information illegally to Russia, was sentenced Thursday by Mr. Justice Laure to six years in penitentiary.

Sentencing the 38-year-old Labor-Progressive M.P. for Montreal-Cartier ended one phase of the dramatic case which began last March when Rose was arrested in his Ottawa apartment. He still faces charges under the Official Secrets act and is to appear for trial on those charges next September although, as his counsel have announced their intention of appealing the conspiracy conviction, this case may be delayed.

Rose told the court, before the judge pronounced sentence, that he had never done anything against the interest of his country.

"Whatever has been said, I still say that I am innocent," he declared.

Joseph Cohen, chief defence counsel, asked for clemency for his client. Any sentence, he said, would bring reaction which would be severe punishment in itself and might ruin Rose's political career.

He referred to the judge's admonition against speeches or demonstrations in support of Rose during the trial and said this admonition had been followed "to the letter."

The judge said these were factors supporting clemency and consequently he would pronounce sentence of six years rather than give the maximum of seven years and a $2,000 fine.

Five Sentenced for 'Contempt' In Fred Rose Conspiracy Trial

MONTREAL, (CP)—Mrs. Emma Woikin was sentenced Thursday to six months in prison for contempt of court and four other persons who were charged with contempt in connection with the Fred Rose conspiracy trial received sentences of three months each.

The three-month sentences were given by Mr. Justice Lazure to Gordon Luman, Harold S. Gerson, Eric Adams and Matt Nightingale, all of whom face charges arising from the investigation of an alleged Soviet spy ring.

Mrs. Woikin, who had pleaded guilty previously to contravening the Official Secrets Act, received the heaviest sentence because, the judge said, there was less reason for her not to testify at the trial of the Labor-Progressive member of parliament.

Mrs. Woikin had been sentenced in Ottawa to 2½ years and Mr. Justice Lazure said the sentence he imposed Thursday would be served on completion of that term.

Luman, Gerson, Adams and Nightingale declined to give evidence during the Rose trial on the grounds it would be prejudicial to their own cases.

NEW YORK, (CP)—Apologies of all this fight, have you heard about the newly-weds who earned $1,150 for punching their way out of a paper bag?

It happened on one of those audience-participation radio programs, which started with a $50 offer to anyone who could puncture (from the inside) a light-foot paper bag shaped like a telephone booth.

For 23 weeks, nobody could. Athlete Bob Feller, Benny Leonard, Barney Ross and Ernie Dusek tried and failed.

Five couples after the Worcester, Mass., contest ended the bag. Dorsey and the sponsors paid out $1,150.

Mrs. Dorsey braced feet and arms to make the bag as tight as possible. Hubby Joseph did the rest.

Angry Von Papen Admits Pressure

MUENBERG. —(AP)—Franz Von Papen, dropping his suave manner after four days on the witness stand, angrily told the international military tribunal Wednesday he helped exert "pressure" on the Austrian government prior to the Anschluss in 1938.

After questioning designed to show that the veteran diplomat played the role of Hitler's super-boy in bringing about the absorption of Austria, Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, assistant British prosecutor, told Von Papen:

"I want you to answer me very carefully because your entire veracity depends upon it. Are you now trying to tell this tribunal you did not exert pressure on Chancellor Schuschnigg to agree to Hitler's demands?"

Von Papen leaned forward, ignored the microphone and shouted: "I have never denied it."

"Well, Von Ribbentrop (former foreign minister) denied it quite strongly," the prosecutor said.

Von Papen said he was responsible only to his conscience and the German people for sticking by Hitler.

Britons Warned Of Grim Winter

By Charles Nickols

LONDON.—Britons were handed two items of bad news from the home front Wednesday. A warning that food supplies will be grimmer this coming winter than in the war years; and that the labor force upon which the nation depends for its post-war production drive is decreasing at a rate of 1,000 daily.

The dismal food supply picture was drawn in the commons Tuesday by ex-Agriculture Minister R. S. Hudson who led off the Conservative attack on the government by making these forecasts for the winter of 1946-47.

General consumers will receive 1 1/2 pints of milk per week; they will get four to six ounces of bacon weekly and only three or four of the best four eggs monthly.

At the same time the Daily News Chronicle revealed that Britain's labor force is running perilously low.

During April, in spite of demobilization, total working population fell by 103,000 to 15,500,000. The reason: 70,000 more women left industry than entered it; there were 30,000 more men leaving industry than there were young men entering it.

The Conservative attack, besides charging the government with lack of planning, hit at the fact that Britain has not gone shopping in the South American market for vegetable oils and corn for livestock feed as the Russians have done. The government defended its position by saying it might be able to buy the necessary supplies in South America but could not obtain shipping to transport them to Britain.

In spite of opposition, incidence in Russia not only had bought vegetable oils in Argentina but had obtained ships to carry it to the Soviet Union.

Wherever the blame may fall for the position which this country now finds itself in, the fact was brought out in debate that the world cereal shortage had caught it flat-footed. Cereal production which had been subsidized by the government during the war had fallen inevitable, it was too late to spur the farmers to greater grain production for this crop year.

It was obvious that neither government nor opposition saw the short-term crisis developing.

Recover Bodies Of Three Miners

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP)—Bodies of three miners who plummeted 800 feet to their deaths in an underground shaft at the paymaster mine Tuesday were taken from a twisted mass of wreckage in the pit below the 4,900-foot level early Wednesday.

First body to be taken from the badly battered mine cage was that of 26-year-old Jean M. Bernard, trackman's helper. Shortly afterward rescue crews found the body of John Lavrick, 49, a cage-tender, and later that of Pete Candusso, 34-year-old trackman.

The men were trapped in the mine elevator when a mine locomotive, about as big as an automobile, plunged into the shaft and sent the cage crashing down into the pit.

OTTAWA.—Prime Minister King Tuesday night repeated the plain words that mean the Liberal party must seek a new leader before the next election.

To an audience at a complimentary dinner representative of all parties in parliament, both in the senate and commons, the veteran leader said that he would like to stay in political life a little longer, but was not going to run in another election.

His statement sharpens interest in the most exciting bit of current political speculation: Who will succeed King and when will the choice be made.

His highly personal and somewhat emotional speech was made after he had heard tributes paid him by John Bracken, Progressive Conservative leader, M.J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, and Ian Mackenzie, senior member of the cabinet, Senator Wishart Robertson, government leader in the senate, Senator C.C. Ballantyne, representative Progressive Conservative leader in the senate, Hon. L. St. Laurent, minister of justice, and Maurice McDougall, president of the parliamentary press gallery.

Some expressed hope that Mr. King would find time and energy to write his chapter of the Canadian story.

Visibly moved by the tribute, Mr. King said he always felt that it was too bad that Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not found time to write the history of their time.

Werner Schwab, sentenced to be hanged in the Lethbridge provincial jail next Wednesday for participating in the murder of a fellow German prisoner of war nearly three years ago, is to appear as a defence witness in the murder trial of L.Cpl. Johannes Wittinger at Medicine Hat this week.

It was learned Wednesday that Chief Justice McEachern has issued an order directing that Schwab be taken from the prison here to testify during Wittinger's trial.

Defence Counsel L. S. Turcotte applied to his lordship here last week for such an order.

‘Jenny and I—We fixed it!’

TWO LITTLE GIRLS SAW A FAMILY CRISIS COMING—AND TOOK STEPS!

1. Jenny and I (she's ten) didn't like the way things were going around our house. Our Parents seemed to be going through a Difficult Stage. Jenny and I used to talk about it after we'd gone to bed.

It had always been, around our house, that our mother and our father never got mad at the same time. One would always crack jokes, and the other would laugh eventually. That's the way we like it, Jenny and I.

2. But recently, they both seemed to be getting ratty. And saying things to each other—both at once. Jenny said it was just like the period after Munich (she's up to that in school). I said it would be like the War of Nerves (I'm twelve and ahead of Jenny).

We'd heard of those things called coffee nerves. Jenny and I. They make people jump, irritate and people with coffee nerves don't sleep right. We decided we didn't want any more of them around our house.

3. So we went to see Mr. Perkins, the grocer, and told him to tell our mother something besides tea and coffee. Mr. Perkins looked surprised and then laughed and laughed and said it would be all right, to leave it to him.

Now we don't know what happened after that or what Mr. Perkins told our parents. We just know that one night at dinner, our mother served Postum. Until we saw what was going to happen, we kept pretty quiet, Jenny and I.

4. Our mother and our father both had very wise and amused looks about them. And as they kept passing cups of Postum back and forth they began to look very pleased. And finally our father made a crack about having Clever Children who Bring Up Parents Right.

Now everything is just the way it used to be. Jenny is up to Ultimatum in school now and she says she's glad none of those was issued in our house. We feel pretty good about things.

Yes—Postum is the perfect way to stop drinking tea and coffee. If the caffeine in those beverages upsets your nerves, makes you irritable, keeps you awake, Postum is caffeine-free! You can drink it at any hour! Make it right in the cup by adding boiling water or hot milk. Costs less than a cent a serving.

Claims No Guarantee of Peace Unless Big Powers in Agreement

JASPER, (CP) — Dr. Norman A. Mackenzie, of Vancouver, president of the University of British Columbia, told the closing session of the District 14th convention of Rotary International that after six years of war the world was not one but two worlds and until the nations got together there could be no lasting peace.

Until Great Britain, the United States and Russia, as the world's greatest powers, could "sit down in agreement there can be no guarantee of peace in our generation," Dr. Mackenzie said.

The situation could not continue indefinitely if the world was to have peace. Nor could Canadians and Americans continue indefinitely to allow the people of Russia to conclude that we will appease indefinitely," he said.

Submit 70 Bills to Parliament In Honoring Election Pledges

LONDON, (CP) — Prime Minister Attlee's Labor administration has presented more than 70 bills to parliament in less than a year in fulfillment of election pledges.

On many other subjects—such as peace treaties, demobilization, reconstruction, national insurance and health and education programs—opposition members have shown agreement. On nationalization the split between the two major parties in the commons has been complete.

Before their first year in office ended, Labor leaders had parliamentary authority for nationalization of the coal industry, the coal industry, the communications systems of Cable and Wireless, Ltd., civil aviation and a major part of the iron and steel industry.

In addition, Herbert Morrison, government leader in the house of commons, announced the program would be extended to electricity and gas service, railways, canals, long-distance road haulage, road passenger transport and dock and harbor undertakings.

Thousands of Former Russians Are Offered Soviet Citizenship

MOSCOW, (AP) — A decree offering Soviet citizenship to thousands of former subjects of the czar and other Russians now living in France, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia, was published Wednesday by the supreme Soviet journal, and signed by Nikolai Zhukov, premier.

There is no available estimate of how many persons may be affected by this decree, but in Paris alone there are thousands of former subjects of the czar.

Another decree signed by Generalissimo Stalin and published earlier by the army newspaper Red Star, requires strict discipline in the army and navy, and a rigid observance of "the rules of military politeness and saluting."

The citizenship decree said that applicants for Soviet citizenship live in France, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. In Bulgaria and Yugoslavia the deadline will be Oct. 1.

Soviet emissaries in the three countries are empowered to investigate the identities of applicants and other facts concerning them, and to issue Soviet passports if they are satisfied that requirements are met.

Report Theft of Huge Jac Cache; 2 British Army Men Said Arrested

LONDON, (CP) — The Batavia correspondent of the London Daily Mail reported Wednesday the arrest of a British officer and sergeant in connection with the reported theft of a Japanese cache of $28,000,000 worth of gold, jewels and cash.

The story said the treasure had been stored by Japanese authorities in a Batavia pawnshop. After the Japanese left, Capt. Nakamura was reported to have buried $4,000,000 of the loot in a garden and turned the rest over to a Japanese colonel who was arrested soon afterward, the account said.

An Eurasian girl, several Dutchmen and Chinese also were held in connection with the theft, the Daily Mail said.

The minister said that while conciliation proceedings appear to have been deadlocked, the employers had applied for a conciliation board.

Political Conditions in Poland Thought Approaching Explosion

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Diplomatic informants said Wednesday that political conditions in Poland are approaching a critical, perhaps explosive, point. Terrorism is widespread and the possibility of a bloody upheaval is not discounted.

The state department, as the latest in a series of moves reflecting American concern over the situation, has asked Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane at Warsaw for a full report on action of the Polish government in closing six districts offices of the Polish Peasant party in the last six weeks.

The Peasant party is the political support of Vice-Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who is a member of the Communist-dominated coalition government because the United States and Britain insisted that he should be there. Russia, on the other hand, backs in general the other members of the government.

Poland is getting ready for a referendum June 30 on a Communist-supported proposal to create a unicameral legislature. Mikolajczyk is fighting this change.

Whatever happens in Poland is considered certain to be of direct concern to United States, Britain and Russia. American and Washington are particularly interested in seeing that Mikolajczyk's power is not smashed by repressive police measures deliberately designed to wreck his leadership.

There are in the country an estimated 350,000 Russian troops, officially to protect supply lines to the Soviet zone in Germany. There is a small but powerful underground army known as the "NSZ," which has a disciplined force of an estimated 50,000 or more. There are uncounted hundreds if not thousands of ordinary bandits of no political significance.

The south side miss meets the winner of the Isabel "Helen" (Helen) tilt in the wind up.

A British informant said the ministers agreed quickly on a clause protecting the rights of Italian nationals and property in areas to be ceded to other countries, chiefly France and Yugoslavia. It has been agreed in principle that both these countries will obtain frontier rectifications.

The balance of the session found the ministers in disagreement on clauses concerning the restoration of Allied property in Italy, expropriations and compensation to Allied nationals in Italy for personal injuries.

Louis Wins By 8th Round Kayo

Joe's Repartee Has Sharp Edge

By Bill Boni

NEW YORK, (AP)—From the mob standing on each other's shoulders in the champion's steaming dressing room came a voice strong enough to be heard through the din:

"Hey, Joe, what're your plans? Gonna fight again this year?" "I dunno," replied Joe Louis. "I may go down to that Mexican league. They tell me I hit pretty good."

That was typical of the cool, steady way the Brown Bomber parried and thrust into the barrage of questions, just as he had done in the past. "I dunno," he replied. "I may go down to that Mexican league. They tell me I hit pretty good."

Joe identified them, in their paper order. Number one was right cross. Number two was a right uppercut. Number three was a left hook.

Did Conn hurt him the one time he landed a left on Joe's head?

"Didn't hurt," said Joe, between slugs out of a quart bottle of mineral water and bites into a section of orange. "It hit me too high."

Conn Causes Champion No Trouble In So-Called "Battle of Century"

All Washed Up Says Billy Conn

By John D. Hamilton

NEW YORK, (CP) — Billy Conn, his challenge for the heavyweight crown beaten down by Joe Louis, declared himself finished as a boxer in an after-fight statement.

"I guess all there is to do now is rack up my cue," he said. "I'm finished. I just don't want to be out there and there's no use getting my head knocked off."

Another remark of his manager, endorsed the remarks of his fighter. "Billy will never go in a ring again," he said.

"I don't want him to get punched," said the thousands who had paid up to $100 a seat to see the title fight and came as a shock. Another shock, too, was Conn's poor showing in the early rounds.

Conn slowly moved out of the Yankee Stadium after the fight, sharp disappointment in the so-called "Battle of the Century" was evident everywhere. The general feeling seemed to be an outgrowth of that old brocade — "They never come back."

At any rate, because Conn was an old man athletically speaking in the ring last night.

South Side and C.N. Battle To 6-6 Tie

South Side and C.N.R. battled to a 6-6 tie in a Junior Baseball game played at Clarke stadium Wednesday night.

For better than seven innings Murray Stewart, giant right-hander on the mound for the Seona crew, appeared well on his way to a whitewashing job of Lou Hiett's scrappy railroaders.

He had them on the hook for the "four" Purcell stopped Jack Thorburn, 6-2, 6-3; Scott turned back his doubles partner, 6-2, 6-3.

NEW YORK, (AP)—The punch that has made Joe Louis the greatest fighter of his time Wednesday offset the years the Brown Bomber has been away from his fistic trade and left his crown as king of the ring still perched on his head in the most-ballyhooed sports event in history.

Putting his heavyweight championship on the line for the 22nd time since he tore it off the head of ancient Jim Braddock, the tan terror of the fight world overcame the strongest challenge in his nine-year reign by knocking out Billy Conn but out-punched Billy Conn in the eighth round of their return match, just as he did it five years ago in the 13th.

The paid attendance of 45,266 for a gross gate of $1,925,564 — below the hoped-for estimate of a packed house in the huge Yankee stadium — roared their cheer by knocking out Billy Conn but out-punched Billy Conn in the eighth round of their return match, just as he did it five years ago in the 13th.

For five years, Joe has waited for a chance to know he could have done it anyway. For five years, Billy has waited for another shot—sure that he could do it on boxing skill alone over the 15 round route. And for five years the fight faithful of the whole world pondered and waited.

Last night they got the answer, after seven rounds in which Louis stalked his rival, as an infantry sniper stalks the enemy in wartime. The action was slow, as Joe inched forward and Billy circled out of danger from the other Joe carries in his gloves.

Mostly it was just left-handed pecking, with a few jab and a few hooks and a rare right-hand attempt.

Then, midway in the eighth, Joe maneuvered his man into position. He hit out with a long, lashing left that straightened Billy up like a wheel. The handsome challenger was wide open.

In a flash, Louis was in. His right ripped over twice like a pile-driver pounding a hole into the mud. Billy started to come down, slowly, like a building falling apart after a shell hits it.

Then came a slashing, murderous left—and it was over. For Pittsburgh pretty boy hit the gleaming canvas in the center of the ring. He lay flat on his back, his arms outstretched, and he didn't get up.

Counting him out five years ago in the Polo Grounds, across the Harlem river—counted the same full 10. Billy had barely stirred when Joseph's fist landed on his forehead, knocking him 10. At two minutes, 19 seconds of the eighth the end came.

For Billy it was for keeps. Immediately afterward in his dressing room, he admitted it. "This was my last fight," he said. "I'm through. I just haven't got it."

Clarence Campbell Appointed Assistant to N.H.L. President

NEW YORK, (CP)—Deadlocked over the 1946-47 schedule the National Hockey League's board of governors adjourned Wednesday to attend the Louis-Conn heavyweight fight.

On the third day of their annual meeting the governors, owners and managers elected officers, discussed the season and got to work on drawing up a new constitution.

Col. Clarence Campbell, formerly of Edmonton was appointed executive assistant to Dutton. Major accomplishments of the meeting were an agreement between the N.H.L. and the Canadian Amateur Hockey association and the International Ice Hockey association which provided for a payment of $20,000 to the amateur group for players drafted into the major loop.

Dr. George Harney of Edmonton, president of the I.H.A., said the N.H.L. was the C.A.H.A. was paid only $2,180 for N.H.L. player drafts.

Hanson Dutton of Middleton, N.S., president of the C.A.H.A., said the N.H.L. and his body also discussed the season and got to work on drawing up a new constitution.

The N.H.L. announced it had extended its draft agreement with the United States Hockey league, a professional loop west of the Mississippi, but said negotiations with the American Hockey league had broken down.

In 1946-47, as in 1945-46, the two leagues will operate without an agreement as to territorial jurisdiction and there will be no player draft from the A.H.L.

President Dutton said the application of a Philadelphia group to operate an N.H.L. team next year had been turned down because the league felt it would be impossible to build a suitable rink in Philadelphia by Dec. 1.

Election of committees of the N.H.L. saw only one major change. Clarence (Happy) Day, coach of Toronto Maple Leafs, replaced Frank Selke on the board of management.

Job Makers

Plans were announced at Ottawa to keep the National Research Council operating on its expanded wartime basis, including the activities carried on in Alberta and the other prairie provinces. The expenditure for the present year will be not far short of $6,500,000. It must not be included the cost of atomic re- search, for which a station has been established in northern Ontario.

Nothing could more clearly emphasize the broadened range of production in which Canadians will have to engage in the future. We cannot go back to the restricted field of pre-war days. For in all other countries re- search men are seeking and finding new products, agricul- tural and industrial, and new methods applicable on farm and in factory. In Canada in which Canada cannot refuse to enter and cannot afford to lag.

The war brought great indus- trial expansion in Canada. It gave new values to some of our mineral resources—uranium for example. It showed that soft wood can be handled as well as hard- wood in a multitude of new ways. It introduced machines to do what was formerly hand- work better and faster. It demonstrated that farm production could be multiplied in a few good years to the point of threatening another glut of wheat or other food.

Research workers led the van in the revolutionary advances of which these are instances. They must continue to lead if Canada is to keep abreast of other countries. Their success in the laboratory and the experi- mental plant and plot will depend to an indefinite degree whether there can be full employment and sustained employment in Canada. And a national income sufficient to maintain a high and rising average standard of living.

The research workers make jobs for others. They deserve good pay, and all the expense money they can spend to advance.

Hats and St. Paul

There is a new dispensa- tion in the Canadian house of commons where it has been discovered, to everyone's vast surprise, that no formal rule compels lady members to re- tain their hats during sit- tings. Hitherto, members of the gentler sex have worn their headgear. Now the hats may come off—probably will.

The truly amazing thing about this is that no one has ever got the notion that lady members should re- main covered in the first place. It is traditional, and a symbol of the freedom of parliament that male members may wear their hats in the house if they choose. Some of them as a gesture, have worn them.

It may be possible that the fraudulent convention with regard to female members was devised by someone who wished to impress upon the mem- bers of the gentler sex their inferiority. If that is so, it was a mean trick. And definitely unconstitutional.

On the other hand, who- ever bruted the rumor that lady members should retain their hats may have been mixed up in his mind with the dictum of St. Paul with regard to ladies in churches. St. Paul's exhortation was definitely not a feminist. If this latter is the case, the situation is even more obscure. For how could anyone mix up St. Paul with the house of commons?

Western growers are to get about 12 cents per bushel final payment on the wheat they marketed in 1945-46. The Wheat Board profits to be thus divided amount to $36,000,000. Cheques are to be sent out in two days or so. There will be about 400,000 of these, averaging around $90 per cheque. Coming in this "re- ward" season, the money will be help to meet the coming harvest expenses. The distribution of this large amount of money will have a worth while stimu- lating influence upon western business.

A Los Angeles movie director received $113,000 for his services last year. But when the tax officials laid down and asked him to pay his share, he said his take-home pay was about $100,000. He ought to film that take-out.

Today in Europe

By Randolph Churchill.
 MILAN, Italy -- There seem to be no useful precedents to aid Italian politicians in creating a republic overnight.

When the French rejected a Constitution they at least had a clear-cut plan before them and, by rejecting it, made fairly plain the sort of modifications they required. But Italians have to start planning from the bot- tom.

Strangely enough, they may be assisted in their task by the absence of any marked enthusiasm for the new republic. The vote on the issue was far more a vote against the House of Croy.

When a king is driven out there is usually a group of re- volutionary leaders equipped with some far-reaching, if im- practicable, political doctrine. But no one regarded Humbert II as a tyrant. And it's not easy to detect any particularly heroic figures among the politicians elected to the new Constituent Assembly.

Nor can the people feel that they have liberated themselves by their own exertions. They know their real oppressors were the Germans, the Austrians, the Allied victory, and that alone, which gave them the opportunity of turning themselves into a re- public.

Much depends on the monarch- ists. Their leaders have a deep responsibility to do their ut- most to make a success of the new regime. This is not only their patriotic duty. Paradox- ically, it's also their best chance of seeing Humbert restored to the throne. If they do not, they will be accused of sab- oting the new regime.

Lack of enthusiasm may be a disadvantage in the short run, but it may result in drafting a better Constitution than if passions had been running high.

Unless all Italian parties work together to promote unity disaster may come upon them. No doubt the whole influence of the Church will be exerted to bring restraint and compromise among the political parties.

Peace By 'Understanding'

By Dorothy Thompson

Nearly every week this col- umn is invited to join some movement to promote "understand- ing" between nations. The sug- gestion is that the greater our understanding the less our fears. This device is the com- mon observation that all people are peace-loving, from which it is supposed that given closer contact between peoples war would disappear.

This is a dangerous miscon- ception of the cause of war. Wars are not caused by the feelings between the population or failure of communication be- tween cultures. Wars are made by states. The State powers are delegated to it by the people who may change the holders, but cannot take the powers into their own hands.

Of all these powers, those dealing with the status of the nation and the power of the powers are farthest removed from the people's influence. The German people are peace-loving unless worked up to the power by lead- ership. I am not anti-German, but I recognized the nature of the Nazi state and knew the nature of the power of the state change as an instrument.

All states are dangerous to "other states by reason of their position in the world. It is not war. Their people may be warm- hearted and friendly but the state is always a power. It is always other than the people. It is a people, merely by reason of being the State. Russians loathe the Germans, but they live in a bureaucratic police state that governs their lives, by reason of having accepted a state-con- trolled economy.

We are going in the same direction because labor and capital are proving unable to develop a peaceable partnership with mutually accepted stand- ards of work and pay in relation to profits and production.

War is the result of the divided possession of war-making powers in the hands of sov- ereign states, subject to no law. The elimination of one, two, or three, four, five, or only two remain, does not diminish the danger of war, no matter what the nature of the people. ### The Road Ahead

By Harper Prowse, M.L.A.

The reason for the develop- ment of society is that individ- uals decided, far back before the dawn of history, that it was to the advantage of all to band together against the dangers of protection against wild ani- mals, and other individuals and tribes. Out of this simple basis our civilization has evolved. Therefore it seems fair to state that each of us continues to live as a member of a group, not because of benefits we expect to receive.

Probably the chief character- istic of civilization is the em- phasis individuals place upon the duties of society towards the individual. Hardly a day goes by without some appeal to government to accept new or in- creased responsibilities; to produce jobs for the jobless, to provide for the aged, to provide for the produce of farms and fac- tories, mines and forests, to allowances for children and the sick, medical attention for the sick.

The trend is, then, for every one of us, the moment we find ourselves in a position of in- dividualism or as a group, with any problem which seems too difficult to solve by ourselves to ask the government to solve it for us. When we do this we are asking all other members of society to share our problem. If this trend continues, and each one of us passes his individual problem on to everybody else, one of two things will happen. One will have a problem of his own, but each will be weighed down with the accumulated problems of everybody else. The other will result in complete and utter chaos.

Therefore, I believe the time has come when each individual should make up his mind to the make-up of society and our- selves, carefully and searching- ly. We should make an honest and sincere attempt to solve the problems which should properly be placed upon the shoulders of the individual. We should be the agent for society as a whole, not the agent for the individ- ual member of society. We have been drifting blindly for too danger- ously long a time.

A housing official says 2,500, 000 families in the United States will be looking for homes by the end of the year. He advises newly-weds to "prepare to live with mama and papa". Maybe it's mama and papa who are booked to do the "preparing".

First Farmers' Day

Tomorrow is our accepted "longest day of the year." This year it is more than that. It is unique, for it is Farmer's Day, the first of its kind ever known in the world. It is as far as available records show.

Farmers in convention assem- bled across Canada last week agreed that the longest day of the year would be the most fit- ting for farmers to take a hol- iday for they, as a class, work the longest hours on most days of the year—in spite of the sun- der-grease sneers from some quarters that the western "wheat miner" spends his sum- mers sitting on the front porch watching the crop grow and his winters in sunny idleness in California.

City folk will hope the farmers' good time to- morrow, and that all their crops this year will be bumper ones and fetch a good price. Some city folk, however, do not know that their bread is but- tered thickest when the farm- ers' is too.

Anders Polish Army Oath

Now that the Polish army of General Anders in Italy is at last being demobilized, rumors are afloat that the soldiers will be settled in Canada and the other dominions. Before the Canadian government issues any invitations, it must take note of a ceremony which Anders followers held this week before beginning their movement back to Britain.

At this ceremony, the Polish soldiers took an oath to "con- tinue the struggle for the free- dom of Poland and to defend the conditions in which we shall have to live and act". Translated into English, this meant that, whatever the circumstances, they would settle, they will continue to work for the freedom of Poland, and to defend the conditions in which we shall have to live and act.

Under these circumstances, any nation which admits a sub- stantial contingent of these men is simply asking for trouble. Anders and his followers will obviously regard the offer of a new home to which they owe allegiance, but as a mere base of operations for their return to Poland. By letting them in, Canada will simply be helping herself to a share in a Polish civil war, with all the international and international complications that may involve.

Many undoubtedly need im- migrants, but not a single one with divided allegiance.

Newfoundland's Election

Tomorrow will see perhaps the most important election in the history of Newfoundland. The voters are choosing a national convention whose task it will be to decide the future status of the island.

For the last twelve years, Newfoundland—previously a self-governing dominion—has been under the rule of a commission appointed from London, a virtual reversion to crown colony status. Now the British govern- ment has indicated that it is prepared to let the Newfound- landers decide their own future. The coming election is the first stage in this process.

The convention will be con- fronted with four possible solu- tions:

1. A return to dominion status and responsible government.
2. Federation with the mainland, in whole or in part.
3. Union with Canada.
4. Union with the United States.

Observers find it difficult to resist which course the Newfoundlanders will follow. One would normally expect them to support a return to self-govern- ment. The island's previous ex- periences with democracy, how- ever, have been very unfortunate; successive governments wallowed in extravagance and corruption, and the end was national bank- ruptcy. The British commission has given the islanders efficient and economical government, and conceivably, many of them might want to retain it.

Union with Canada has been a case of international interest since Confederation. At the present time many Newfoundlanders favor it as a means of escape from the economic and financial difficulties which have beset the island's economy and its dependence on the mainland for foodstuffs. Opposed to this, however, is a strong spirit of nationalism and local pride, and the desire to break the centuries of isolation and her- mistic way of life.

The government of Canada has given no overt encouragement to the movement for federation. Whatever the issue of the coming election, it will be watched with interest in Ottawa as well as in London.

Incredible as it may seem, swindlers have collected $30,000, selling gold bricks in the environs of sophisticated Ottawa.

Production the Only Way

New Zealand, with its Labor government, has been held up to Canadians by our Labor and So- cialist leaders again and again as a good example for us to fol- low.

They, and the rank and file of Canadian trades union labor, will therefore, it is hoped, study and heed the advice of one of our "wise" men, and follow the labor leaders' P.P. Walsh, a member of the Dominion Stabilization Commission of New Zealand and chief economic adviser to the government and the Labor Party of that country.

The following paragraphs are taken from a lengthy report by Mr. Walsh to the New Zealand Federation of Labor:

X X X

"The labor movement is inter- ested in improving its condition and in raising the standard of living. Strange as it may seem to some people, there is no conflict between these ideals and the benefit of the whole community. If the movement suc- ceeds in improving the real standard of living, it benefits not only itself but the whole country. But there is only one way in which these ideals can be realized—and that is by the pro- duction of more goods and ser- vices. We must not lose sight of this fundamental economic prin- ciple: that everything else depends on it."

"The volume of goods avail- able for consumption has not in- creased in the last few years. Monetary increases (savings and wages)."

"Nothing should be allowed to interrupt the productive system. We cannot afford to have stoppages of production. Machin- ery exists in the Federation of Labor strikes in the present moment for the settlement of industrial disputes. This machinery is adequate and is there to be used. The history of disputes shows that it must be used on the same stage, and therefore the most effective way for our movement to use it is before a work stop- page occurs."

"Every time a work stoppage occurs, not only are wages lost, but goods are lost which are es- sential to the attainment of a higher standard of living—our primary objective."

"It is the labor responsibility to work for the maximum pro- duction of goods and services, and anything which stands in the way of this is contrary to the best interests of the movement."

"The effects of wage increases on the price and production of goods have been the most care- ful attention, if we are going to co-operate in building a sound basis for our future pro- duction. The price of essential items entering into the cost of living have been held very suc- cessfully by stabilization con- trols since 1942. Wages in the meantime have shown significant increases. A large part of this gap has been filled by sub- sidies."

"The only solution to our prob- lem is increased production. I stress again at this point that we must have higher standards of living, we must have more goods and services. Our movement must have the right to set wages. We want to raise actual standards of living. To do this we must increase production."

"This brings me to proposals even now being made for a shorter working week. Certain in- dustries are offering to reduce working hours to 35 in order to take up the slack. On the surface, no doubt, some labor people will think this is a victory. A careful analysis, however, will show that workers are not going to benefit by this reduction in hours while goods and services are in short supply. They will tend to push up costs and prices."

"The question of reducing hours should always be measured by the supply of goods and ser- vices available to the people. If there were over-production, and stock-piles were accumulating, then we would be justified in an attempt to reduce the working hours—not now when New Zealand's main economic difficulty is a shortage of goods."

X X X

We have let Mr. Walsh write most of this address, but as it is addressed chiefly to the workers of Canada, we may be pardoned for quoting an experienced labor leader so extensively.

What Mr. Walsh says of con- ditions in New Zealand is true of conditions in Canada. In fact, substitute the word "Canada" for "New Zealand" in the quoted paragraphs, and all will apply with equal force to this country and the situation in which we find ourselves right now.

The burning question these days is whether or not to take a raincoat.

The strike fever is one of the worst of contagious diseases.

The Third Column

LONDON'S FANTASTIC PRICES

By Basil Dean

After the millions of Victory Day spectators had vanished from London, the dreary queues for bread, meat and potatoes reas- pired. It was only a day or so before the glory and the peace- try seemed part of another world, a world for which Britain was not yet ready.

That world, for the millions of Brit who fought and fire- watched in the name of victory, expressed itself in terms of an automobile, a house and a re- frigerator. Some even aspired to washing-machines, those strange contrivances which Bri- tish people have heard are common in North America but which are here the exclusive perquisite of the well-to-do.

But the price of the cheap- est washing-machine is $200,-- for a model similar to one which this writer saw advertised in the latest batch of Canadian newspapers to reach London, at $84.90. And, since the average level of industrial wages in Britain then in Canada, $200 puts washing-machines out of reach of most of the population. Those who inquired the other day about electric refrigerators. There were some available, with delivery in the two months (with luck). They were small and very plain affairs with no frills such as quick-freeze compartments, automatic interior lighting or temperature control. Since new electric motors of fractional horsepower are quite plentiful, these first models would be fitted with recon- ditioned secondhand motors. And the prices were not too high, perhaps he explained that the Englishman hasn't the alterna- tive of ice-boxes, for ice delivered to your door.

As for automobiles, these are currently the centre of the most fantastic black-market of the war. The new used car prices are in any way controlled, and seven-year-old autos with less than 40,000 miles on the clock are selling for at least 20 percent more than a new one of the same make and model. You can get a new car, if by any form of black magic you can get one, for anything up to $1,500 more than you paid for the one you used to own. A man who has ordered two new auto- mobiles of different makes, both priced at about $1,400, is re- spects to get delivery of the one he doesn't want rather sooner than the one he would really like. He is making the same ar- rangements to sell the first as soon as it is delivered, at a profit sufficiently handsome to enable him to get the second for a nominal sum.

Meanwhile, manufacturers are sharply increasing their prices for raw materials. This week hoisted their prices by a cool $500, putting their better models close to the $1,000 mark. They say that costs have gone up all round. Wages have increased heavily, steel has risen and a ton of coal delivered to Windsor, Ont. And automobile manufacturers are being sus- ceptible to mass-production economies. Costs fall sharply as output increases, and the question whether British manu- facturers, even with the cur- rently exorbitant prices of new cars, are making any real profits at the present low levels of production. ### BRITISH IN EGYPT

From the Manchester Guardian

British troops have been in Egypt since 1914, when an expeditionary force under Sir Garnet Wolseley arrived for the campaign that ended the rule of the Khedive of Egypt, T. E. Lawrence. From then until 1922, when the country's independ- ence was proclaimed, Egypt was a British protectorate. In 1936 the Anglo-Egypt- ian Treaty was signed, providing for the ending of the military occupation of the country. Britain would retain a maximum army of 75,000 men for the defence of the Suez Canal. If, when the agreement expired at the end of 20 years, the Egyptian forces were able to maintain the inde- pendence of the canal, British troops might be withdrawn by mutual agreement.

Urgent Operation Port Churchill

SASKATOON, June 20 (CP) — Secretary Frank Ellason of the Hudson Bay Route Association said yesterday the interprovincial committee on the route should reconvene to urge use of Churchill for storage and shipping of this year's wheat crop. He said he had written to the association representatives on the committee suggesting a meeting be called soon.

"WE ARE NOT satisfied with the attitude of the Canadian Wheat Board in indicating that no more wheat from this year's crop will be consigned to Churchill."

The Dalziel Steamship Lines of Britain were prepared to supply ships necessary to operate the port all summer, Mr. Ellason said. The Canadian Merchant Marine should also be able to provide ships.

He had information indicating that rural telephone companies in Saskatchewan required several carloads of telephone wire that could be imported via the Hudson Bay route. The Dalziel Steamship line had ordered two carloads of linoleum from Britain and had specified that it be shipped by the Hudson Bay route, he said.

"There is plenty of other business available."

New Drugs Help To Check Leprosy

WASHINGTON, JUNE 20 (AP) — New drug weapons are helping to check leprosy and are giving patients "A much brighter outlook on life," says Dr. G. H. Faget, head of the government's leprosy program at Carville, La.

He says three drugs of the "sulfa" family, promin, diasone and promizone, required several carloads of telephone wire that could be imported via the Hudson Bay route. The Dalziel Steamship line had ordered two carloads of linoleum from Britain and had specified that it be shipped by the Hudson Bay route, he said.

Reports have been made in medical literature on the use of promin which is administered intravenously, and on diasone which is taken by mouth. The use of promizone, also taken orally, has not been described previously.

"NOT ONLY is the progress of leprosy checked, but the patient's disabling and debilitating ulcerations are healed—all of which results in a much brighter outlook on life on the part of the patient."

A decrease of 68 is recorded in the number of measles cases reported to the city health department during the week ended June 15, compared with the week previous, and Dr. G. M. Little, medical officer of health, stated that with school holidays at hand a further decline in the epidemic can be expected when schools close.

DURING THE WEEK ended on June 15 there were 176 cases reported, compared with 224 the week previous. Six cases of chickenpox were reported compared with 15 and 24 of mumps against 36, and five of rubella compared with nine. There was an increase of one in the number of scarlet fever cases reported, as four cases came to the attention of the department during the week under review.

Irrigation Project Progressing Well

The irrigation development project on the St. Mary's and Milk rivers, which is destined to supply a large part of Southern Alberta with much needed irrigation, is progressing well and should be completed by March 1947, according to a statement by R. Mr. McMullen stated that the dam will be 600 feet thick at the base, one mile and 105 feet high. A 25-foot roadway will run over the top of the dam. Accompanying Mr. McMullen on the trip was H. P. Ames, government photographer.

LONDON, June 20 (CP) — The British Communist party, in a statement has pledged itself "to rally the people to reverse the government's present foreign policy before it is too late." The statement said the "Dangers of war have become apparent to all," and that "antagonism to Communism and dependence on American capitalism, instead of friendship with the Soviet Union and the Democratic countries of Europe, can result only in betrayal of the program of social progress for which the country voted."

Why Grow Old?

Here is lovely Actress Jane Harker doing one of her favorite Josephine Lowman exercises for abdominal reduction. If you need such exercise (and you do) you'll be interested in the waist reduction instructions today.

By Josephine Lowman
WHAT A MAGICIAN is exercise!
It can banish rolls and unattractive lumps and bumps from the slim girlish silhouette. Most women begin settling down to thicken up by the time they are 30. Even at this early age you can discover the forerunners of the mature figure to come.

The middle age spread is blamed on everything from babies and glands to ancestors. This provides an excuse for the woman who has allowed herself to deteriorate because one cannot help avoid one's ancestors or glands, and the babies are worth it! There is a blossoming out which adds beauty to the mature figure which angular youth can never match. However, there is no point in taking this theory too far and bulging out in unattractive humps of fatty deposits.

BELIEVE ME, it is all a question of caloric control and daily exercise. Hundreds of times in my classes I have seen contour dug out of fatty deposits by exercise, and long hidden beauty revealed. Figure molding is a highly scientific art and the trick is to do the right exercises in the right way. For years the old front bend has been distorted from its real value. It is usually done with the emphasis given to the stretch of the arms upward. This has little value.

Protest Against Sound Truck Noise

Doctors, dentists and businessmen in downtown Edmonton Wednesday registered numerous complaints with the city commissioners that their businesses were being interrupted by the "volume of noise" broadcast by sound trucks travelling through the streets, and requested that immediate action be taken to eliminate the nuisance.

CITY COMMISSIONERS announced that a by-law is being prepared for submission to city council on July 8 next, and in the meantime all sound truck companies are being notified they must reduce the volume of sound broadcast by their trucks.

City Solicitor T. E. Garalde, K.C., said that under the by-law regulating sound cars' operation in the city would provide for strict limitation of the volume of sound broadcast from the car. If city council favored their continuance rather than banning their operations altogether.

Take a dollar bill out of your pocket and look at it. You have 35 cents of that dollar—or more—because of Canada's foreign trade. Without it, you would only have 65 cents, or less, instead of each dollar you now have. For at least one-third of Canada's national income is earned from Foreign Trade.

That is why it pays even to go short on goods we need now, to keep our customers in other countries happy... why it pays to put your best into any products you help to make or services you perform for export trade.

Your Trade Commissioners are stationed in 26 countries, and their job is to help Canadian firms sell our goods abroad... or buy goods we need from other countries. This Foreign Trade Service of the Department has head offices in Ottawa, where complete information is available to every Canadian business that buys or sells merchandise abroad.

But after all, their success depends largely on everybody doing his or her part to keep Canada's foreign customers satisfied in their dealings with us.

Sinister Atlantic Graveyard Still Yawns for Ships

RCAF ground crew men have their share of flights to such spots as dead Sable Island, 130 miles from the south coast of Nova Scotia, photographed on flight to test airborne radar equipment. The 22-mile strip of treacherous, shifting sand is dotted with the bleached and rusty bones of ships. Many more lie buried.

Strangled by Sable's death grip is the Boston fishing trawler, Gale, which grounded on the east end of Sable last February. In those few months, she has been almost covered.

CALGARY, June 20 (CP) — The $63,000 objective of the Calgary diocese in the Anglican advance appeal has been oversubscribed by $15,000, and church officials are hopeful that an even larger amount will be realized before the appeal is closed. Totals for the Dominion are $3,284,622 of the objective of $4,300,000. Nearly half the amount is in cash subscriptions. The diocese of Brandon, Edmonton and Saskatoon have also gone over their quotas.

Canada Can Ship More Meat To The Hungry If We Eat Only What We Need—Turn In Coupons

Even under rationing Canadians are eating more meat than before the war. Less meat eaten by Canadians would mean more for children like these. Two are shown making a personal gift of meat by donating some of their own meat ration coupons. Valid meat ration coupons or tokens which the public turn in to Local Ration Boards or give to authorized custodians go to purchase extra meat for shipment abroad.

As long as valid coupons remain in the hands of consumers, meat has to be retained in Canada to honour them. When coupons are donated, an equivalent amount of meat is freed and added to overseas shipments. Careful cooking, smaller servings, the elimination of all waste will enable Canadians to contribute more valid meat coupons toward feeding the hungry people who face famine in Europe and the Far East.

Malingering or incompetent juniors got short shrift from Johnson in the exciting years behind the blockade in Sweden. He had a legion staff of more than 300 men and women, and from every one he demanded and got something close to perfection.

As a result, the wartime American legation in Stockholm operated smoothly and efficiently. Johnson was on the job seven days a week, and he saw to it that it was.

Johnson's staff got away on holidays for summer "white nights," sailing on Lake Malaren and winter skiing in the mountains. He encouraged such breaks. It was good for morale.

I didn't recall that the minister himself ever took a real holiday during the war; he felt that he must stick by his command post.

Johnson's apartment at Hovstranden 5 was diagonally across the street from the German legation in which the Nazi minister, Hans Thomsen, had his residence. The American always made certain that his German opposite number, knew exactly when the United States had a holiday: He hung a huge American flag from his windows, practically in Thomsen's face.

The American flag hung over Strandvagen from the legation on such days was not large enough, Johnson decided. So he obtained the largest American flag ever seen in Sweden and made certain that it was in place bright and early.

Ready for Real Fight, Louis Found Conn Soft Beaten by a Better Man, Conn Quits the Ring

By JOE LOUIS

(Written exclusively for International News Service and The Edmonton Bulletin. Copyright 1946. Reproduction in whole or in part prohibited.)

NEW YORK, June 20 (INS) Billy Conn certainly surprised me. He was a soft touch. And I was ready for a real fight. He fought me just like I thought he would, and it wasn't good enough. I hope that everyone now knows that I have a left hand, too.

MANNIE SEAMON, my trainer, and George Nicholson and the others in my camp planned that I'd box Billy. We knew that I could do it.

My left jabbing in the early rounds really set him up and then in the intermission between the seventh and eighth, I said to Manny:

"I think I'll fight him this time. Enough of this boxing stuff," and Manny nodded to me and I went out there.

I hadn't hit him many good punches in the early rounds. A couple about about the fifth that made him puff a bit, but nothing really solid.

HE WAS CIRCLING around and and running backwards just like I thought he would, and I had to travel only about half the distance he did.

I wouldn't say he was the easiest guy I ever fought. That's because I once fought a man named Kingpin Levinsky in Chicago, he was the softest of all. And now wasn't hard either. But Billy was much easier than I had figured. He surely slipped a lot in the five years between our fights.

I really can't account for it. Billy had absolutely nothing. He hit me a good right hand on the head in the first round but that didn't hurt. Later on he hit me a good one in the stomach, but they were sweeties, and when I felt them and didn't feel anything I had no worries.

CONN HAS JUST said that he is retiring for good. I am too. He's a nice boxer and a nice fellow and he was a good man in the ring. But I have no idea of retiring.

Honestly, I feel perfect right now. And I can say that I don't see any difference in the way I fought Billy last night than in my other fights.

I knew I hadn't lost my punch. And when I was able to cut loose in the eighth I was mighty pleased.

I nailed him first with a right cross. And then he fell into a right uppercut and my left hook and the final trick.

WHEN I SPOTTED that opening for the left hook I knew Billy was dead duck. I was taking it easy up to that time. But I never like to see an opening go by. And that was beauty. Of course, the two right hands to the head had started him. Billy couldn't help himself.

This time there was nothing about Billy losing his head and trying to slug with me. He just wanted to fast as he used to be or as he thought he was for this fight. And he couldn't keep flitting away all night.

He didn't lose his head the way we usually talk about a man losing his head, but he was in danger of losing it. Actually it hadn't gone down under that left hook.

THAT TRAINING siege of mine surely paid off, and when I fought again it won't be hard to get in this good shape I'm in right now. That was tough, but I knew I could make it.

Mannie Seamon was just as smart as old Jack Blackburn in handling me for this fight. He knew what we were aiming at. A right and a left to the chin and we got what we were aiming for.

I'm not going to fight again this year. I will stay around New York until after the week-end and then go to Cleveland and other cities to play golf and to watch the good professionals. Fighting is my business. Golf is my fun.

You know I never had any thought about my ability to finish Billy whenever I got the word from Manny. Right off the bat in the first round I knew that Billy had slowed down and that he couldn't hurt me.

I SENSED HIS LACK of speed the first minute of the first round. When I knew that he had slowed and that I wouldn't have to do much running. I was home free. It's a great feeling and gives me the greatest thrill I ever got. Mainly because it took five years to show that it hadn't been a fluke the first time.

Five years, two rights and a left hook.

Advocates Development Canadian Trade With Countries of Far East

Canada has failed to give all the attention necessary to bolster this country's trade with countries in the Far East, the Hon. James A. MacKinnon, minister of trade and commerce at Ottawa and Liberal member for Edmonton West said here Wednesday evening.

HE MADE THIS statement in addressing a banquet at the Macdonald hotel in connection with the 11th annual convention of the Junior Chamber of Commerce of Canada. The four-day parley, which is being held in the Memorial hall, opened its sessions Wednesday afternoon.

Special guests at the function, which was attended by nearly 200 Edmonton and visiting delegates to the parley, included Mr. and Mrs. C.D. Jacobson, president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Charles Garnett and R.H. Elliot, representing the Edmonton senior chamber of commerce.

Mr. MacKinnon, president of the delegates on behalf of the City of Edmonton, Ed O'Connor, national president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. O'Connor, both of Calgary; Joseph M. McKenzie, president of the Edmonton Junior Chamber, and Mrs. McKenzie; Henry Kearns, president of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Kearns; and John L. McIntyre, past president of the Edmonton Junior chamber, and Mrs. McIntyre. Among others in attendance were 12 delegates from Panama and 11 from Hawaii.

MR. MACKINNON told the young businessmen that Canadian exporters would have to make special efforts in the Indian market, since India's overseas trade during the war years tended to become concentrated in the Middle East, Africa and Australia.

"I believe that Canada is destined to exercise an increasing influence in world affairs, particularly in the shaping of commercial policy, and it would be a source of great strength if our younger businessmen could be turned to this field. Western Canada, I believe, is now on the eve of a new expansion that will benefit every part of the country," the minister said.

DEALING WITH Canada's trade prospects in Latin America, Mr. MacKinnon expressed the belief that the country could expect the greatest expansion in its trade with Latin America. He declared expressed "the keenest desire" to increase their trading relations with Canada.

By BILLY CONN

(Written exclusively for International News Service and The Edmonton Bulletin. World copyright. All rights reserved. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

NEW YORK, June 20 (INS) Those who saw me knocked out by Joe Louis at the Yankee Stadium last night were looking at the kid's last fight. I'm through and I know it. There is no use in my kidding myself. I felt fine going into the ring. It wasn't until we'd gone a couple of rounds that I realized that I wasn't the fighter I used to be.

I DON'T THINK JOE WAS as good as he was when I fought him five years ago, but he's still a great fighter. How that fellow can punch! He hit me a right on the head in the fourth round and I've got a lump there as big as a billiard ball.

I knew he could punch going into the ring. I planned to dance around and hoped to tire him out. I kept moving and I think I kept off the ropes pretty well. I couldn't break through his guard with anything that did any damage. Still I was confident he'd get worse.

Instead Louis kept forcing me. My legs began to tire. They were coming down off my toes. I knew he was reaching me more and more as the fight progressed to the fifth round.

LOUIS HIT ME a hard right to the head in the fifth and made my knees buckle. That must have been the tip off, but I slipped under the next right and made Joe miss a left hook and a third right.

When the knockout came in the eighth round I didn't expect it. He hit me a smashing right to the jaw. Again I tried to slip under it as I did in the fourth round. I didn't make it. And I ran into another smashing right. They tell me as I started to fall he nailed me with a left hook.

There I was flat on my back. Referee Eddie Josephs was counting. There was nothing I could do about it. Try I would, my brain wasn't functioning, but in a vague way I knew I had to get up. Well, I didn't make it.

THE LAST TIME was five years ago before the war. In that fight I was winning when the knockout came. It didn't come until the 13th round.

This time I wasn't in front when the end came. And Louis finished it in eight rounds.

That's how much I've slipped and there is nothing I can do about it. I guess at 28 I'm older than Louis is at 32. At least I'm older athletically.

I came out of the fight in pretty good shape. Just before he knocked me out he opened a cut under my left eye. It isn't much. I'm out on the bridge of the nose, too, but I ain't broken.

I'M DISAPPOINTED at not winning the heavyweight championship, of course. That was my ambition and my goal. I didn't make it.

I am convinced that I lost to the greatest heavyweight champion of all time. Joe Louis is the best fighter I've ever seen, and I simply didn't have enough to beat him.

There is a certain satisfaction in going down fighting.

I didn't think I disgraced myself. I trained faithfully and I was in good condition going into the ring. I had a carefully thought out plan of battle. I followed it through to the best of my ability.

I felt so good when the bell rang that I started to kid Louis.

THAT'S LIKE FOOLING the atomic bomb.

I said, "Take it easy, Joe, we've got 15 rounds to go."

Louis didn't answer me. He never spoke during the entire fight. He just kept crowding me.

Louis doesn't seem to be moving fast. Still he's always on top of you. I began to feel it about the fifth round. My legs were getting heavy. I was tired about the knees.

As I recall, Louis pinned me on the ropes in the fifth round and hit me two smashing punches in the ribs. They didn't do me any good.

After that it was only a matter of time. I didn't exactly know it, but I guess those were the two blows that set up the knockout.

LOUIS MUST HAVE sensed it for he stepped up the pace. I was thoroughly tired when the stadium fell on me in the eighth round.

I haven't any excuses or alibis. I was beaten fairly and thoroughly. I am proud that I am no longer a top flight fighter.

I'm retired from the ring.

Showers Held For War Brides

MERRITTON, Ont. (CP)—"Something more tangible than 'hello' and handshake in Merritton, Ont. is the offering for those who have come from overseas to make their homes here. Instead the Ladies' Auxiliary, Canadian Legion, greets each new arrival with a shower of household articles."

"We gave our first shower last August," said Mrs. C. McGill, secretary of the organization. "It was just an idea and we hoped it would be a good one. For example, we thought it was one way of repaying the people overseas for their kindness to our servicemen while they were stationed there."

So far the organization has held showers for six brides, and there are 12 more in the offing for those yet to come from overseas. Every bride receives $20 worth of household necessities. The bill is footed by the 80 or so members of the auxiliary, each of whom contributes 25 cents a week toward the gift.

Enough used clothing from Australia was donated by UNRRA in Canton, China.

Divorcee Jilted 'Hair Turned White'

SYDNEY, Australia, (CP)—A 48-year-old divorcee claimed in the supreme court that her hair had turned white after her 60-year-old lover had jilted her.

The divorcee, Mrs. Linda Crowle of Sydney, said that her hair turned white with shock when Leslie Dine, manufacturer of Sydney, married another woman in February, 1933.

Mrs. Crowle said she had known Dine since 1927, had become engaged to him in 1930, and he had kept off the engagement and putting off the wedding for a year.

She was granted $500 damages for breach of promise.

For more than a year, Marilyn has been collecting and preserving brains of more than 30 kinds of animals, fish, birds and even a human brain. She works in her own laboratory in the basement of her home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Easton of Vancouver have announced the engagement of their elder daughter, Patricia May, to Joseph, Neville Calvert, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Calvert of Edmonton. The wedding will take place in Vancouver, early in August.

Stowaway Takes Bittern Lake Job

Albert Barry, 16-year-old Toronto boy who was found stowed away in the blanket compartment of a C.P.A. plane scheduled to leave for Yellowknife, N.W.T., at the municipal airport early Wednesday morning, has found employment at Bittern Lake and has abandoned all plans of going to the northern goldfields it was learned Thursday.

Police learned that the youth, who resides at 71 De Grassi street, Toronto, came here Monday with Norman Blackburn, a friend of his father's. Blackburn and his young companion had planned to go to Yellowknife, but found they lacked sufficient funds for both to make the trip so young Albert decided to try and get north without paying his fare.

Blackburn has also given up any immediate plans of going "down north" and has obtained employment with a city construction firm. Albert's father, a truck driver for a Toronto glue manufacturing firm, is understood to have consented to his son coming west with Blackburn.

Allen Watkins, Honolulu, Urban Allen, Honolulu, and Floyd W. Fitzpatrick, Honolulu.

Mr. Watkins is a vice-president of the national Junior Chamber of Commerce and a director of the Honolulu chamber. Mr. Allen is city editor of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. Mr. Fitzpatrick is vice-president of the Honolulu Jaycees.

All praised the Canadian scenery and the Canadian hospitality, but declared that for a place to live you can not beat Hawaii.

RETURN TO JOBS — About 300 employees of the Brantford Corderie Company yesterday returned to their jobs following settlement of their week-long strike. No details of the settlement were given, other than that "a mutually satisfactory solution" had been reached. The strike was ended when two employees were discharged for what was described as violation of company rules.

The words red tape, denoting official inaction or delay originated in England in the 19th century when legal and official documentation had been reached. The words were tied in a pinkish tape.
